

You can now get HR certification credits for blogging

As of January, HR professionals can earn recertification credit for creating blog posts that cover HR-related topics, according to the HR Certification Institute, an arm of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM).

Each blog post of at least 700 words will be worth 0.5 credits. You can earn a maximum of two credits per year for blogging.