

How do you deal with a short-tempered boss?

Question: "My boss is a very good one about nine days out of ten and then there always comes a day when he blows his stack a little. I can usually see it coming, but even so, I find it unsettling. I'm not sure I have the patience to endure anyone with even a mild anger problem—to me there's just never a call for it to escape someone's lips. How have others dealt with a hothead?" - Madeleine, Direct Response Marketing Associate

Leave your response below!