

Can you put a price on workplace gratitude?

Question: "Let's put a hypothetical out there. If you were offered a 25% raise, but only on the condition that you would never again be thanked for any of the little (or big) things you do to help during the workday, would you take it? Why or why not?" - the editors of Administrative Professional Today

Leave your response below!